Thank you for bringing a keen eye and questions on a variety of the work being done lately, and for being patient with the evolving needs and priorities in working toward our initial non-beta launch.

I want to thank you for the incredible effort and work done on the console. I'd like to keep working together on a variety of things, including a few UI projects I want to explore, and I look forward to everything we'll be doing over the next year!

Congrats to the API Cloud team for their effort in releasing the new Trimble Developer Marketplace. This release will make it so much easier for developer across Trimble to discover and consume API Products by bringing the marketplace experience directly into the Cloud Console, along with packing in extra features and enhancements that have been sorely needed. I can't thank the team enough for their individual contributions - I've seen every single person step up and take ownership. I'm very proud of the team and confident in their abilities to keep delivering excellent work. Thank you!

To everyone on the API Cloud, it pains me that I can't visit Chennai and work with you all in person. I appreciate all the hard work you are each putting in to help us deliver API Cloud v2.0 on time and with a high level of quality. With TID dependencies, Apigee limitations, and so many moving parts, it's critical to be flexible, agile, and creative to deliver the right solution and I think we have the right team to do it. Keep it up and feel free to reach out to me directly with any feedback, ideas, or to have a conversation -- it can be tough with time zones but I value your engagement. Thank you!
